HEY... LET'S CHAT!

If you could have a conversation with the character, what would you say? What would you ask them? How would they respond? In the box below, create a text message conversation between yourself and the character. You start!

The image shows a simulated text message conversation interface. At the top, the status bar displays 'School 3G' and '1:00 PM'. Below the status bar, the title bar shows 'Messages' on the left, 'Dialogue' in the center, and 'Edit' on the right. The main area contains five empty text message bubbles, each with three horizontal lines for text. The bubbles alternate between being on the right (sent) and left (received). At the bottom, there is a camera icon, a text input field, and a blue 'Send' button.

Think about it . . .

What is going on in the mind of the character? What are they thinking about? Who are they thinking about? What are the things that they enjoy the most? What are the things they despise the most? Fill in the character's facial details based on the descriptions you are given. Fill in the thought bubbles around the face.

The worksheet is enclosed in a dashed border. In the center is a simple line drawing of a face with a large, empty oval for a mouth. To the left of the face is a rectangular label with a pointed top and bottom, containing the text "Character's Name". Surrounding the face are eight thought bubbles of various sizes, each containing several horizontal lines for writing. The bubbles are connected to the face by small circles, suggesting a flow of thought.

Another e-pinion...

What do other characters say or feel about this character? Well, Now we can find out as some of the other characters have sent in e-mails sharing their opinions OR "e-pinions" ☺
